ANY WIFE TO ANY HUSBAND.

Today, if I were dead and could not feel
Your kisses or your tears upon my face,
If all the world could give of woe or weal,
Could find within my heart no resting place,
You would not think of any bitter past,
You would not chide me for a careless word,
You would not be so cruel at the last,
As to condemn me, unconfessed, unheard.

If I were lying wrapt about in white,
With flowers all around me, on my breast
And in my hands, and on my face the light
That angels shed upon their dead at rest—
If I were lying thus, and one should say
Such bitter things as you have said to me,
With sternest anger you would drive away
That one and swear 'twere all base calumny.

I'll not rebuke you, though my heart be full.
I dare not chide. I, too, may be astray.
Experience yet may teach—a bitter school—
Me what to do and what, perchance, to say.
And yet I ask you, humbly, tenderly,
If I should answer nevermore your call,
Would you not grieve of all most bitterly
For words and deeds that are beyond recall?

THE CLIFF RUINS OF COLORADO.

A Region of Especial Interest to Students of the Prehistoric.

The cliff ruins of the San Juan and the Mancos have been the center of attraction, have been viewed from all sides, and their wonders have been told and retold to the world time and time again. Scientific men have visited the region, have penetrated southwestern Colorado and have considered that section a place of especial interest, because the cliff and cave dwellings are probably the first built in this strange land, being the first built in this mysterious journey southward of a great but unknown people.

A few years ago the prospector has followed the San Juan river and gazed with careless unconcern on the rough and broken walls, so full of interest to the archaeologist.

But the mind of the prospector has no room for curios, and he has no time for archaeological investigation. He sees only the glitter of the gold in the sand, and thinks only of the time when he shall have made his stake. In November of 1893 hundreds of gold hunters rushed madly into the canyon floor of the Navajo mountain, traveled 300 miles over bleak, desert tablelands, suffering terribly from the cold, hunger and the long, weary journey.

In a few days they had staked out all the available land for 50 miles up and down the river and then returned home without having obtained so much as a color of gold, and today have nothing to show for it but the stakes.

It is one of the most widely picturesque and beautiful regions in the world. The black old Navajo mountain, rises abruptly and towers like a giant sentinel over the surrounding country, miles over bleak, desert tablelands, suffering terribly from the cold, hunger and the long, weary journey.

SILVER PARTY

Why is it that one man is old and decrepid at 45, and another hale and hearty at 80? The accident of birth has something to do with it. Some men are born stronger than others, but frequently the strong man becomes weak and the weak man strong. It depends on the care he takes of himself. When the man who runs an engine hears an unusual sound about it, he stops immediately and looks it up. If he finds a little looseness, or a little crack, it is remedied immediately. If he isn't, there will come a break presently—a break that will wreck the engine. Likely as not, this same man will totally ignore the call for help from some one of his own organs. He will let the trouble grow and grow until it lays him out in bed. If he keeps on working with a damaged body, he will soon wear it out. The strain on his nerves will tell on his constitution. He will not be hearty when he is old. The chances are he never will be old at all. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores health. It is not only a cure for disease, it is a preventive. Whenever a man feels that he is not quite as well as he ought to be, whenever he is listless, without energy and without vitality, whenever he finds that he is losing weight and that his ordinary work gives him undue fatigue, he needs the "Golden Medical Discovery." No matter how his trouble shows itself, this wonderful remedy will cure him. We say it is wonderful because of its wonderful results, and not because there is anything supernatural about it—not because it does anything that is unexpected, or anything which its discoverer did not mean it to do. It cures many different so-called diseases. It is the most natural thing in the world which you understand that cures all diseases spring from the same thing—bad digestion and consequent impure blood. The "Discovery" makes the appetite good, the digestion strong, assimilation easy, and the blood rich and pure. No disease of the blood can withstand its action.

THE MEANING OF "COIN" IN GOVERNMENT OBLIGATIONS.

All United States bonds and treasury notes are payable in coin and it is so stated on their face. Some years ago it was generally understood and almost universally conceded that coin meant gold and silver coins of the United States of standard value. A doubt was expressed in 1878 concerning the interpretation to be given the word "coin" in government obligations, and to remove it Senator Stanley Matthews of Ohio, afterwards Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, introduced the following resolution:

"Be it resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring therein), that the bonds of the United States issued or authorized to be issued, under the said Acts of Congress heretofore recited, are payable, principal and interest, at the option of the Government of the United States, in silver dollars of the coinage of the United States containing 412½ grains each of standard silver; and that to restore to its coinage such silver coins as legal tender in payment of said bonds, principal and interest, is not in derogation of the public faith nor in derogation of the rights of the public creditor."

The acts referred to in the resolution were those of March 18, 1869, to strengthen the public credit; the refunding act of 1870, which made the bonds of the government redeemable in coin; and the resumption act of 1875, which authorized the issuance of bonds of the same character as those provided for in the act of 1870, all of which were redeemable in gold or silver coins of standard value.

The Matthews resolution passed the Senate January 25, 1878, and passed the House January 25, 1878. It settled all doubt that may have existed as to the meaning of the word "coin" in government obligations, and declared that all bonds issued or to be issued under the said acts of Congress are payable, principal and interest, at the option of the government, in silver dollars of the coinage of the United States containing 412½ grains each of standard silver, and that to restore to its coinage such silver dollars is not in violation of the public faith.

Of recent years since the gold syndicate assumed full control of the United States Government through Harrison and Cleveland, it has been the policy to pay all government obligations in gold, though the policy necessitates the issuance of bonds to get the gold, and the gold men, thinking the people had forgotten the Matthews resolution, boldly assert that it would be repudiation to pay them in silver.

The fact is, and the gold press and gold speakers cannot disprove it, every bond issued by the United States is payable in coin and the Congress of the United States, as is shown by the Matthews resolution, has interpreted the word "coin" in all Government obligations to mean gold or silver dollars at the option of the Government. It is not in derogation of the rights of the public creditor to coin silver dollars containing 412½ grains of standard silver to pay the public debt, though the bond holders and their hired allies endeavor to make it appear that to do so would be repudiation.

WILL THERE BE FUSION?

In every State in which conventions have been held, the Bryan men of all parties have agreed to fuse or made arrangements for fusion on Presidential electors. Concessions have been made by Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans, to promote harmony. They are determined to unite all the friends of Bryan and silver in a solid phalanx so that every vote for free coinage may count. Fusion has been effected in Oregon, California and other Coast States, each party being accorded the representation to which it is entitled on the electoral ticket.

Will the Bryan men of Nevada follow the example of those of other Western States by uniting on one electoral ticket? Some who pretend to know say they will not. Those who are opposed to fusion are encouraged by the gold men, who hope to profit by dissensions in the ranks of the silver men. These patriots, inspired by Mr. Hanna's bar! and the hope of Federal aid in the event of the success of the gold trust, are urging the Populists to put an independent electoral ticket in the field. Should they succeed, many who have heretofore acted with the party, will not assent, and say such a ticket will not receive five hundred votes in the State. Conservative Populists say they do not want to give exhibitions in a side show for the benefit of the gold circus, and if the Populist leaders think they can fool the rank and file of the party with such a game, they will discover that they underestimate the intelligence of those whom they assume to lead.

The Democrats are said to have pooled their issues, and taken steps to consolidate both factions and unite with the Silver men on an electoral ticket. Common sense would suggest such a course, as putting a ticket in the field would place them in the position of auxiliaries to the gold brigade.

MCKINLEY'S LETTER

In his letter of acceptance Mr. McKinley removes all doubts that may have existed in the minds of the gold syndicate and its agents on the financial issue. He declares himself unalterably opposed to the free coinage of silver. He condemns all efforts to array the masses against the classes and has not yet disabused his mind of the idea that the financial question is not the paramount issue of the campaign. He seems to think that the re-enactment of the bill which bears his name would restore prosperity to the agriculturist, though James G. Blaine said it did not make a market for one more barrel of pork or flour.

Mr. McKinley while kept in seclusion at Canton should be permitted by Manager Hanna to have access to the public press that he may understand that the people are aware that it is not a difference of 11 per cent in tariff schedules, but the adoption of the single gold standard and the determination to maintain it if he is elected that is reducing the market value of real estate, labor and all products of labor, except gold, and causing the general business and industrial depression throughout the United States.

MCKINLEY'S ACCEPTANCE.

What He Says on the Financial Question.

CANTON, Ohio, August 17.—Governor McKinley's letter of acceptance is given to the public. It is devoted principally to a discussion of what he considers the great questions of the campaign—protection, money and reciprocity. About one-third of the message is devoted to a consideration of the free silver question. He announces that he is unalterably opposed to any such policy. He shows that the Republican position in the pending campaign is no "new departure," but that it is a proposition to maintain gold and silver coin at parity, and has been the unbroken policy of the Republican party since 1878. He says it has inaugurated no new policy. It will keep in circulation and as good as gold all of the silver and paper money which are now included in the currency of the country. It will maintain their parity. It will preserve their equality in the future as it has always done in the past. It will not consent to put the United States on a silver basis, which would immediately follow free coinage. It will oppose the expulsion of gold from our circulation. He says that the farmers and laborers would suffer most by the adoption of free silver. The silver question, in his judgment, is not the only question affecting our money in the pending contest. He considers the declaration of the Democratic and People's parties for the unlimited and irredeemable paper money as a most serious menace to our financial standing and credit that could be conceived, and appeals to every patriotic citizen to promptly meet and defeat it. He condemns as in the highest degree reprehensible "all efforts to array class against class," classes against masses, section against section, labor against capital, poor against rich, or interest against interest. He considers protection as the issue of supreme importance and observes that while the peril of free silver is a menace to be feared, we are already experiencing the effect of partial free trade. One would avert; the other correct. He recommends the immediate restoration by Congress of the reciprocity sections of the tariff law of 1890 with such amendments, if any, as time and experience sanctions as wise and proper. The underlying principle of this legislation, he observes, should be strictly observed. This, he explains, is to "afford new markets for our surplus agricultural and manufactured products without loss to American laborers of a single day's work that he might otherwise procure." He discusses foreign immigration briefly but forcibly. He commends legislation that will prevent the coming here of all who make war upon our institutions or profit by public disorder and turmoil. He favors liberal pensions for soldiers and sailors.

Bryan Speaks to Workingmen.

PHILADELPHIA, August 27.—Bryan is hoarse from too much speaking yesterday, and plunged into the battle again this morning by speaking to 2,000 people from the hotel balcony. The audience was largely composed of workingmen, who cheered him to the echo. He dwelt upon the necessity of electing a friendly Congress, and bespoke the votes of his auditors for Sibley for Congress. Sibley also spoke. A reception was held, lasting one hour, in which long lines of people greeted Bryan and his wife.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—pleasant efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is a one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

NOMINATING CANDIDATES.

Only Two Legal Methods of Doing It. EDITOR JOURNAL. A question having arisen as to which Democratic Central Committee, that represented by Mr. J. R. Ryan, as its Chairman, or that represented by Mr. H. Harris, as its Chairman, has authority to call a convention of Democrats to nominate candidates for office, I suggest in the interest of harmony and safety, that the two committees unite in a call for a primary election to choose delegates to a convention to be held in the near future. A convention so called would certainly be empowered to act and its nominees would be placed upon the ballots without question.

The convention could and would nominate Mr. George Russell and Mr. J. C. Ryan as two of the Presidential electors, and thus remove all friction and legal doubt. In the discussion so far had of this subject, a matter of vital importance has been overlooked. Under the Australian ballot law, and the primary election law of this State, there are only two methods of nominating candidates for office, namely:

1. By a convention, or assemblage of delegates, representing a political party.

2. By certificate of nomination, containing the name of the candidate to be nominated, signed by electors. (Australian Ballot Law, Section 4.)

It is unnecessary to point out the difference between a mass convention and a convention of "delegates." There is absolutely no authority for nominating candidates for office by a mass convention, and such procedure is against the letter and spirit of the laws. If the convention theory be adopted, primary elections must be called, no given, election boards appointed, the object stated, and the qualifications of voters prescribed. (Section 1, Primary Election Law, Statutes 1893.)

The mass convention of Democrats recently held at Reno had no authority to nominate candidates for office, and its action in that respect has no validity in law. Respectfully,

ROBT. M. CLARK.

Burglars Around.

Sometime during night before last a burglar entered the cellar at Judge Webster's residence and stole a side of bacon, a roll of butter and several cans of fruit. He crawled through a small window, having removed the screen that covered it. His tracks were quite plain about the premises yesterday morning and indicated that they were made by a large man.

The night before the cellar at the residence of Lou Gentry in the Powning addition was entered and several articles of provision taken. In this case the thief gained an entrance by prying off the fastening on the outside door. Evidently there are burglars around and it behooves people to take the proper precautions.

Republicans Who Are for Bryan

From Eastern advices I ascertain the following conversions to Bryan:

B. F. Burke, President and Manager of the Union Window Glass Works, and largely interested in other window glass plants at Anderson, Indiana.

The silverites of Plainville, Ohio, organized a club of 650 members. It is composed of staunch Republicans and Democrats, some Republicans being old wheel horses in the party for many years.

At Millersburg, Ohio, 200 Democrats, Prohibitionists and Republicans organized a Bryan Club and endorsed the Chicago platform.

Judge E. R. Wilson of Buffalo, Indiana, founder of the Republican party in Wells county, has bolted to Bryan.

At Washington, Ohio, Humphrey Jones, President of the Peoples' and Drivers' Bank, has taken the stump for Bryan. He was a lifelong Republican.

At Carbon, Indiana, I. S. Batton, a lifelong Republican, has gone over to Bryan.

At Farmers Station, Ohio, the Clark Township Silver Club organized with 105 members, 22 of whom were former Republicans.

At Greenfield, Indiana, a free silver club organized at Cowden school house with 17 of its signers formerly staunch Republicans and was addressed by Hon. W. E. Scott, a Republican convert.

I insist that Illinois, Indiana and Ohio are not doubtful States. My observations recently made justifies this assertion. 'Tis Nevada's duty to contribute speakers and literature to the doubtful States. I am in continual correspondence with that section and from day to day will publish such advice as I receive from the East, showing the great change for Bryan.

BREVITIES.

The eastbound passenger was delayed west of Blue Canyon last night and did not arrive until after 1 o'clock. A car on a freight train off the track was the cause of the delay.

McKinley remains unalterably opposed to the free coinage of silver. This is Mr. Hanna's opportunity to fill several barrels. No gold man can reasonably object to opening his purse when he reads that letter.

Regent Starrett came in from Lander county yesterday to attend a meeting of the Board of Regents. He says out his way the people are practically unanimous for Bryan for President, and if there be any goldbugs they do not chip.

Allen Bragg of the Gazette had a close shave yesterday and "is a little disfigured, but still in the ring." He received numerous expressions of sympathy from his gentleman friends and the ladies, smiled more forcibly than compassionately as they passed him on the street.

S. L. Frazier, Milwaukee; Miss M. and Miss K. Moore, Virginia; R. Smith, Genoa; A. Thompson and wife, Los Angeles; H. Roddan, Wheatland; John Pickley, Cal.; D. B. Perkins, Mont.; L. Doolittle, Cal. and May Mahoney, San Francisco registered at the Hotel Reno last evening.

Senator Jones said in his letter to the Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee two years ago that the Republican organization was unalterably opposed to free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1 or at all. Many members of his party denounced the Senator for misrepresenting the party as they claimed. Now these men are supporting McKinley, who says he is unalterably opposed to silver, and opposing Senator Jones because he favors free coinage.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Diamonddale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible prostrations of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store. Regular size, 50 cts. and $1.

Republican Club.

The Republican club held a full meeting last evening, the entire membership of sixty or sixty-five being out in force. The principal business transacted was the selection of names to be voted for at next Saturday's primaries as delegates to the State Convention.

Twenty names were chosen and the thirteen receiving the greatest number of votes will be declared elected. Fifty-seven names were selected as delegates from Reno precinct to the County Convention to be held September 22. The other three members of the club will probably get proxies from outside precincts, so that all may have seats in the convention.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness, yield to Electric Bitters. Fifty cents and $1 per bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

Mrs. B. E. Hunter is the busy woman who has in less than four years, here in Reno, sold Thirteen Thousand Seven Hundred dollars worth of Viavi remedies. Gentlemen who have stomach troubles, come and get some of our tablets; you will never regret it. Any person who is ill, come and see if we have not a remedy that will cure you.

TO CLEANSE THE SYSTEM.

If the statistics of the world could be collected, it would in all probability show that the most dangerous way of traveling is with a hot air balloon. We believe there is authority for stating that in proportion to the number of people traveling in various conveyances, horses and wagons kill more people than steamboats or railroads, or trolley cars or bicycles. —Poughkeepsie Eagle.

An evidence of the strong uniformity of the people of the United States is shown in the fact that the most common name taken at birth is John. Then I will have more time to play with you boys." True to his word, he went to Louisville, and several days later a man came up and went to work in the store "Now," said he, "I am ready for a game tonight, and I warn you I am going to hang a pile of money with me. I am determined to win back what I lost or lose all that I have left, which is considerable." Well, the gang felt sorry for him. He was a good fellow, they admitted, but he had no business playing poker. However, his money was as good as any one else's, and if it was in the game they must go out after it.

The game commenced early that night and lasted until 6 in the morning. Again the Frenchman tried his old tactics, but somehow they did not work. Every time he came at the stakeholder the latter was loaded. Finally, about 6, the game broke up, and the fancy groceryman walked down stairs, washed his hands and face and went to the depot, where he took the first train out of town. He had soaked the Frenchman for $25,000 and had picked up $5,000 more from the small fry. Investigation showed that the supposed clerk had really bought the store, and the last the crowd heard of their $30,000 the smooth spoken stakeholder was spending it abroad. He took a crimp in that poker game that was never ironed out. —Washington Post.

A GOOD POKER STORY

THE NEW MAN IN THE NEW HARMONY SELECT CIRCLE.

He Was in the Grocery Business and Hadn't Time to Play—However, He Joined the Party For Two Evenings and Sold Out His Grocery Store.

"I saw a story in a paper recently," said an old sport at Willard's the other day, "which told how two shuck strangers from the Windy City milked a poker game in an Indiana town and got away with all the money in it. That reminds me of another story of the same order."

"In the town of New Harmony are located a number of gentlemen of great taste and considerable means. For years the maunstay of this crowd was playing euchre and whist, but this was finally changed by the arrival of two characters who organized and taught a class in poker. The first of these was the son of a Frenchman, who lived on an island down the river. His father was worth in the neighborhood of $200,000 or $300,000, and he kept his boy well supplied with money."

"Well, this progressive youth organized a poker game in the peaceful village of New Harmony. There were about six in the party, and it was their custom once a week or more to meet at the hotel and indulge in a friendly, quiet game, but one where the only limit was the beautiful blue sky. The Frenchman played a game of bluff from start to finish. He would pick along in the pots until some one thought he had a fair hand and would open for a few hundred dollars, when the Frenchman would shove from $2,000 to $5,000 dollars into the pot before the draw, and nine times out of ten the other man would have to go to the pack."

"There was another player in the game, the hotel keeper, who was also after the spuds. He was the only one who could beat the Frenchman. Time after time the latter would push his roll and send the hotel keeper to the pack. But once in awhile the latter would catch his antagonist napping and would come back at him with another raise, getting back in one pot all he had lost during the remainder of the evening."

"One spring day a well dressed, quiet looking man drifted into town and put up at the hotel. In the course of time he was introduced to all the crowd about the hotel, and they found him a most congenial companion. He was only a moderate drinker, but liked to gather a crowd around him and smoke and tell stories. After a week of this he told the boys that he intended to locate there and open a fancy grocery store. He went away for a few days, and when he returned he opened up near the hotel. Such a store as he opened had never been seen in the place prior to this time. He kept imported pickles, canned shampuns, fine cigarettes and everything on that order, supplemented with a stock of the choicest wines, liquors and cigars. Owing to his congenial habits his store soon became the leading place of the place playing crowd, and they often gathered there of an evening to listen to his stories and to drink and smoke. Many invitations were extended to the quiet man of business to take a hand in the game, but he invariably replied that he knew nothing about playing poker. He had, he admitted, played the game and liked it pretty well, but he would say: 'You boys have nothing to do to-morrow and can afford to stay up all night if you want to. I have my business to attend to and must get around early to open up.'

"One night, however, when the crowd had been drinking more than usual and were feeling particularly good, they refused to take any excuse and insisted that he must go in with them. He had been drinking himself, and he finally consented to go to the hotel and take a hand for awhile. In the game the Frenchman played his same old tricks. Every time the stakeholder would poke his head out of his hole the Frenchman was waiting for him with a club and hit him hard. The game broke up about 5 o'clock in the morning, and it was found that the stakeholder was out about $4,000. Was he sore? Well, I should say he was. He had told them, he said, that he didn't want to play; that he couldn't play, and that he could not afford to lose the money. Finally he said: 'I have been thinking for some time of putting a clerk in charge of my store, and I am going down to Louisville tomorrow to get one. Then I will have more time to play with you boys.' True to his word, he went to Louisville, and several days later a man came up and went to work in the store 'Now,' said he, 'I am ready for a game tonight, and I warn you I am going to hang a pile of money with me. I am determined to win back what I lost or lose all that I have left, which is considerable.' Well, the gang felt sorry for him. He was a good fellow, they admitted, but he had no business playing poker. However, his money was as good as any one else's, and if it was in the game they must go out after it."

The game commenced early that night and lasted until 6 in the morning. Again the Frenchman tried his old tactics, but somehow they did not work. Every time he came at the stakeholder the latter was loaded. Finally, about 6, the game broke up, and the fancy groceryman walked down stairs, washed his hands and face and went to the depot, where he took the first train out of town. He had soaked the Frenchman for $25,000 and had picked up $5,000 more from the small fry. Investigation showed that the supposed clerk had really bought the store, and the last the crowd heard of their $30,000 the smooth spoken stakeholder was spending it abroad. He took a crimp in that poker game that was never ironed out. —Washington Post.

ELECTRICITY AND WAR.

The Telegraph as an Agency in Preserving Peace.

In the course of his farrowell speech at the dinner of the British chamber of commerce in Paris Lord Dufferin, the retiring British ambassador, said:

"But whatever may be the ups and downs of the diplomatic career, every member of the service, no matter how unpromising the post he occupies, may console himself with the reflection that, if he is industrious, prudent, and, above all, single minded, the bread he casts upon the waters will not be lost, and that, perhaps, when he least expects it,

his day will dawn, for, though, like everything else, the outward aspects of diplomacy have changed since the beginning of the century, never have the nations stood in greater need of the thing itself than at the present moment.

What do we see around us? The whole of Europe is little better than a standing camp numbering millions of armed men, while a double row of frowning and opposing fortresses bristles along every frontier. Our harbors are staffed, and the seas swarm with ironclad navies,

to whose numbers, I am forced to admit, England has been obliged, in self defense, to add her modest quota. Even in the remotest east the passion for military expansion has displayed an unexpected development.

"In fact, thanks to the telegraph, the globe itself has become a mere bundle of nerves, and the slightest disturbance at any one point of the system sends a portentous tremor through its morbidly sensitive surface. We are told by the poets of old that when Zeus nodded the golden halls of his Olympus shook to their foundations. Today it would not take any one of half a dozen august personages to speak above his breath or unwittingly to raise his little finger, and, like in a heaven overcharged with electricity, the existing conditions of unstable equilibrium which sustains the European political system would be upset, and war, waged in circumstances of greater horror than has been hitherto known to the experience of mankind, might eventually envelop not Europe alone, but two—nay, all the four—continents at once, since in every one of their representatives and offshoots of the contending nations would of necessity be brought into collision.

"It is to prevent catastrophes of this kind that we need, civil spoken and well-mannered persons have been invented. Looking at us, you will perhaps say that we are a poor and feeble folk,

and that our calling is a sorry preservation of such dangers; but, such as it is, it is the best device that human ingenuity has been able to discover.

After all, a very thin wire proves a perfectly effective lightning conductor, and for over 50 years, thanks to this unpredictable agency, an unbroken peace has been maintained between your native land and the country with whose prosperity and welfare your own interests are so closely associated."

Unhappy Austria.

The cruel humiliation Austria suffered in Italy was followed by the crushing blow at Sadova and the not less painful collapse of a brother's ambitions in Mexico. If the dignity of a Caesar was to be saved for the Hapsburgs out of the wreck, it seemed most likely to be achieved on the lines suggested by Count Bismarck. The choice once made, it was impossible to turn back. What is given as a boon to distressed nationalities in the name of progress cannot afterward be withdrawn on the plea of prudence. The result is pathetic, but there is no help for it.

Matrimony and Patience.

Matrimony and patience! It is not always a perfect combination, is it?

In South Africa the savage tribes have a peculiar ceremony which they put the matrimonial candidate through previous to his entering the holy state. His hands are tied up in a bag containing five ants for two hours. If he bears unmoved the tortures of their stings he is considered qualified to cope with the nagging and daily jar and fret of married life. Such a man would make an admirable husband. He would not be upset by the thoughts of a spring bonnet or grow irritable every time the steak was overdone. The idea of having a patience trial for those about to marry is one that civilized people might adopt.

Two Archbishops.

The archbishop of Canterbury is primate of all England, and therefore takes precedence of the archbishop of York, who is only "primate of England." This very nice distinction was made several centuries ago on account of a very bitter dispute arising between the two functionaries as to which should precede the other. The matter was settled by conferring precedence upon the archbishop of Canterbury, the two titles being also bestowed at the same time.

Side Talk at the Wedding.

The Button Was On.

"Aha!" And he laughed fiendishly as he read from the morning paper. "The burglar shot at the man, whose life was saved by the bullet striking against a button of his clothes!"

"Well," snarled his spouse, "what of that?"

"What of that?" said he as he felt his collar going up steadily to the nape of his neck. "Oh, nothing, except that the button must have been on."—London Tit-Bits.

It takes only five minutes to change wet coats and stockings, but it may take ten minutes to get a cold caused by neglecting to change them.

For your Protection.—Catarrh "Cures" or Tonic for Catarrh in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain either Mercury or Iodine of Potassa, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by sudden change to cold or damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat. Cold in the head causes excessive flow of mucus, and if repeatedly neglected, the results of catarrh will follow: severe pain in the head, a roaring sound in the ears, bad breath, and oftentimes an offensive discharge. The remedy should be quick to allay inflammation and heal the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug. Price, 50 cents.
